

Inclusion of people with intellectual disability in the Inclusive Governance Project

The Inclusive Governance Project is looking at how people with intellectual disability can have a say in the decisions made by community organisations.

We will be asking more people with intellectual disability to work with us on the Inclusive Governance Project.

Some people will take part in focus groups looking at some resources we have made.

Some people will help us to make videos about the things the research has found.

The resources and videos will be on the Side By Side Advocacy website when completed.
